

Call for Papers Third International Workshop on Japanese Diaspora

Hoover Institution, Stanford University
&
The Japanese Association for Migration Studies

The Hoover Institution at Stanford University and the Japanese Association for Migration Studies are co-hosting the Third International Workshop on Japanese Diaspora. The presenters are required to be onsite while we livestream the workshop. We call for papers that encourage rising young scholars to present their new research on Japanese global migration. We plan on bringing an international roster of junior scholars, post-docs, and graduate students in modern Japanese history and Japanese American studies to the Hoover Institution Library & Archives, which holds a vast collection on Japanese and Japanese American archival materials, to discuss the Japanese diaspora from a global perspective. This workshop will allow scholars to consider the history of Japanese migrant workers, immigrants, and settlers as complex non-binominal interactive processes among the homeland and multiple host countries. Please see the program of the JDI workshop II here.

Date: September 10 – 11 (Tuesday – Wednesday), 2024, US Pacific Standard Time

Venue: Hoover Institution Library & Archives, Stanford University
434 Galvez Mall, Stanford CA 94305-6003 (nearby airports are San Jose and San Francisco)

Paper Presentation Format: Twenty-minute in-person oral presentation in English, followed by Q&A. We will host nine presenters.

Submission site: <https://apply.interfolio.com/138100>

Submission Details

Abstract submission deadline: May 17, 2024 (US Pacific Time).

We welcome submissions of papers, particularly in the fields of political, economic, social, and military histories, using primary material from multiple national or linguistic sources. We also prioritize junior scholars and graduate students. We aim to encourage innovative theoretical and methodological approaches to study the history of the Japanese diaspora to open avenues for exchanges of ideas and perspectives. Papers using the Hoji Shinbun Digital Collection (<https://hojishinbun.hoover.org/>) will be given priority. Submissions in English are strongly preferred.

- Abstract presentation (up to 500 words), including the paper title
- Biographical paragraph or CV summary (up to 250 words)
- E-mail address
- Affiliation, city, state, and country

Nine papers will be selected to be presented onsite, and these presenters will receive travel support in the amount of US$1,500, regardless of their home locations. In addition, Hoover Institution will provide accommodation for three nights on September 9 – 11, 2024, on a two-person shared-room basis, as well as breakfast and lunch on September 10 – 11.

The workshop will be held on the afternoons of September 10 and 11. The presenters will study archival and rare books at the Hoover Library & Archives in the morning of these two days. Pre-registration and material requests will be required. Further details will be sent to the presenters.

In the event of travel restrictions to the United States and onsite gathering restrictions at Stanford University, the workshop may be conducted 100% virtually. The $1,500 travel support for the presenters will be paid regardless of the final workshop format to support their future research.

Although membership of the Japanese Association for Migration Studies is not a prerequisite before submission, it will be required before the workshop. We will contact the accepted presenters for further instructions.

Please submit your application online at <https://apply.interfolio.com/138100>

For any inquiries, please contact the Japanese Diaspora Collection curator, Kaoru (Kay) Ueda, at kueda@stanford.edu or the Workshop Committee, JAMS, at jamsintlws@gmail.com.